HOW TO BE A SAP :

Popular magazines invariably carry advertisements offering to teach you how to write in 10 easy lessons, how to dance and sing in five weekly bulletins, how to be the life of the party after only three correspondence courses. It seems very strange, indeed, that someone hasn't gone into the business of telling people how to be a sap.

Risking the thought that some organizer may already have patented the idea of telling others how to be a sap, the formula is given here: Whenever your sense of individualism begins to creep up on you and re-assert itself, force it back down and follow the crowd. When that something that might once have been strong tells you that taking one more drink will make you a fool and an object of scorn, reject the thought and follow the crowd. When you hear the "know-it-alls" broadcasting their filthy wares of tales and jokes, don't try to close your ears; open them wide and follow the crowd. Whenever there is a choice between the easy and difficult, take the easy and you will be following the crowd. And before you know it, without any coupon or stamps to cover the cost of mailing, you will have become a perfect sap.

WHO WANTS TO READ CATHOLIC EDITORIALS ????????????????

By this time, even the less-responsive minds realize that February is given over to National Catholic Press Month. Perhaps the less-responsive are not certain why anyone should observe a Catholic Press Month. But there it is in black and white; so who cares about a "why" and "wherefore"? The month of February would be an excellent time for those who have not done so to get acquainted with Catholic thought through Catholic editorials. But who wants to read a Catholic Editorial for two cents, when you can read "high-grade" smut on slick paper for fifty cents? Only a man with some principles and morals would take the Catholic paper to the smutty one. And the man with principles is one of those "old-fashioned" persons who still believes that God prefers virtue to vice.

FREE FOR THE ASKING :

By this time it should be well-known that anyone having special need of prayers for himself or some member of the family, has only to write out his special intention and give it to the Reverend Director of the Sanguinist. Once a month at their monthly adoration before the Blessed Sacrament, the members of the Sanguinist Club pray for all the intentions listed in the Sanguinist Religious Bulletin.

PRAYERS REQUESTED:

For the repose of the soul of the grandmother of Joseph Von Benken
For the success of the coming Catholic Press Exhibit
For all special intentions.

REMEMBER CONFESSIONS ARE HEARD EVERY THURSDAY AND SATURDAY EVENING
AFTER BENEDICTION IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING THE SUPPER HOUR.

NEWS DIGEST

WASHINGTON, D.C. The fifth annual "Call to Youth" series of radio broadcasts sponsored by the National Council of Catholic Women opened Saturday, Feb. 1. The N.C.C.W. programs will be heard every Saturday over the Red Network of NBC.

The theme of this year's broadcasts will be "Today's Apostolate--Youth Lives the Twentieth Century." The various addresses will be given by several Bishops and prominent Catholic leaders.

SAN JOSE, COSTA RICA. With the beginning of this year, religious instruction became obligatory in the primary public schools of C.R. No child will be excused from these classes without written instruction from guardian; proficiency in religion will be an essential to promotion as in any other subject.

Chicago, ILL. New director of the Perpetual Novena in Honor of Our Sorrowful Mother, in which thousands participate weekly, is Father Calkins, O.S.M., one of four brothers who are Servite priests. Father Calkins succeeds Rev. J.R. Keane, O.S.M., founder of the Novena, who has resigned because of ill health.

NEW YORK, N.Y. Conviction here of Morris Newman, publisher who pleaded guilty to the charge of distributing obscene literature was a successful denouement to the first court skirmish in Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia's campaign against the sale of indecent magazines. In special sessions Court, Newman was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to ten days in the workhouse.
